

Yolo County Sheriff's Office

Press Release

CONTACT: Vicky Fletcher, Business Services Manager, 530-237-6212

SUBJECT: Yolo County Animal Services Needs Your Help to Save More Lives!

The Yolo County Sheriff's Office Animal Services has been making incredible changes and is working harder than ever to save lives and one great example of this effort is the shelter's Barn Cat Program! The Barn Cat Program was established to serve as a safety net for cats at the shelter with no other options for a home.

Recently Animal Services assisted with the Yolo County SPCA's rescue of over 20 cats that were abandoned in a rural area west of Woodland in Yolo County and our Barn Cat Program is full. We are urgently in need of caregivers so we can save more lives.

By adopting through our barn cat program, not only are you helping to save a life, but you are getting the cat's expert help with whatever rodent problem you might be dealing with on your property. Cats are nature's original "green" rodent control.

Most importantly you don't need to have a "barn" to adopt a barn cat. Maybe you have a shop, garage or porch that can serve as a shelter for cats in need. We'll do our best to find the right cat for your situation. You will support this program by providing housing and food and at the same time you saved a kitty's life. Your new friend will be spayed or neutered, vaccinated and ear-tipped and ready to hunt or hang out for many years to come.

For more information about the Barn Cat Program, contact Yolo County SPCA Manager Angela Kinn at (530)662-8858 or email ycasrescue@hotmail.com.